Paper cooler deliveries from AH Diagnostics

As part of its environmental work, AH Diagnostics is currently testing more environmentally friendly ways of delivering refrigerated goods. Today they use EPS boxes, but from 30 October they will be testing so-called paper coolers for deliveries in Sweden. They have already started testing in Denmark, where their head office is located, and have received no negative feedback from their customers.

Procurement for Conferences and Meetings reviewed

Kammarkollegiet's procurement for Conferences and Meetings has received an application for review. The review was submitted on 30 October. Kammarkollegiet's current framework agreement expires on 31/12/2023 and it is likely that they will be without a framework agreement for some time. As KI uses the framework agreement to a relatively large extent, this means that purchases that would have been made through the framework agreement during this period will have to be procured instead.
