Research: Since more than 30 years conduct interdisciplinary and multi-professional research within the area of insurance medicine. Most of my research concerns different aspects of sickness absence and disability pension such as:

- 1) risk factors for sick leave or disability pension
- 2) consequences of being sickness absent or disability pensioned
- 3) factors that hinder and promote return to work
- 4) sickness certification practises, and
- 5) methods and theories within this research area

- This is studied in general
- for different diagnoses (e.g., mental, musculoskeletal, cancer, MS, and CVD)
- for different occupational groups, or
- for different life situations, e.g., giving birth or being in paid work past 65 years.

I use both quantitative and qualitative analytical methods. The traditional perspective of social medicine with its focus on marginalisation, social inequalities, and factors at different structural levels is combined with a gender perspective and a health perspective. Both observational and intervention studies are done, using data from large register databases, questionnaires, and interviews. Have established some unique and large databases, to take this research area forward.

Number of publications, since 1993: 360 articles in international scientific journals, 17 in Swedish scientific journals, 40 book chapters (16 in English), 5 books, 109 reports.

International research cooperation

With researchers from universities in Monarch, Australia; Copenhagen, Denmark; Helsinki & Turku, Finland; Inserm Paris, France; and London, the UK.
